VICTIMS OF WAR IN SRI LANKA: A QUEST FOR HEALTH CONSENSUS

This Conference on the "Victims of the War in Sri Lanka" is being held at a time of optimism and hope. The hope is that the new Prime minister, herself an individual who would have felt pain and anguish of political violence will have the courage and persistence to bring an end to this brutal war. It is also our hope that the benefits of peace will not only accrue to the Tamils but also to all the other communities in Sri Lanka.

The Conference, which seeks to understand the health needs of the War Victims in Sri Lanka is unique in that it is being jointly organised by Tamil organisations from two different continents. Mobilization of the Tamil diaspora all over the globe to participate in the reconstruction of the Tamil Homeland could very well result in more such global meetings.

The Conference which is the result of hard work by a few dedicated individuals, is only a beginning. The work that remains to be done is massive and enormous challenges await those who will continue the work begun by this Conference. With the networking and understanding that will happen at this Conference better and more meaningful programmes will be created which will facilitate wider participation by Tamils all over the world. Such a process requires an understanding of the realities in the war torn areas and the presence of many dedicated workers from these areas will accomplish this.

It is hoped that all who participate in the Conference will go away with better understanding of the health status of the victims of war and from that understanding start a process of constructive action to help the Tamil Homeland.
